Grover Cleveland

We would gladly pay his expenses if he would come out West; we "wouldn't do a thing to him."

We would first of all take him to the different houses of worship on Sunday morning, and let him see our Manly, Generous and Brave Western Man with that look of devotion on his face, and that air of style and refinement about his appearance; the intelligence portrayed is shown by the style of his garments—a well dressed man is a refined and an intelligent one.

Then we would take him in front of our windows and there let him see a perfect Replica of the garments worn by the most intelligent of Sait Lake's male population, for 8 out of every 10 well dressed man in this county are "Ours." We could soon convince the President that he has made a great mistake by talking about something he knew very little about.

And what is the cost of this refinement?

Well, we can give you intelligence at the following rates:
